BOY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

William Geren, Jr., Painfully Hurt When Machine Skidded Throwing Him Into Fence.

WEIGHT OF CAR ON HIS HEAD

Father Leaped Over Fence Taking Three Year Old Daughter With Him—Others Escape.

An automobile accident at Neff's corner, south of the city, yesterday afternoon came near proving fatal to William Geren, Jr., the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Geren. The machine, driven by the boy's father skidded on the turn and went in the ditch. The auto did not turn completely over but caught on the fence. The boy was wedged between the heavy machine and the fence, the entire weight being against his face.

At the time of the accident the boy was asleep in the back seat and was unaware of the impending danger. Mr. Geren released the boy from between the machine and fence and at first thought he was dead. His face was badly battered and a deep cut from the wire fence on his cheek. Fourteen stitches were required to close the wound. He was taken to his home and while resting easy today is not yet out of danger.

Mr. Geren, seeing that he was going in the ditch and not being able to control the machine, leaped over the fence taking his three year old daughter, who was in the front seat at his side with him. Mrs. Geren and one other child remained in the machine and were not hurt. Mr. Geren jumping over the fence sustained a cut from the barbed wire on top of the fence but the little girl was not hurt.

The little boy, who was hurt, just missed the barbed wire, his head resting just below the top strand. The chances are that he would have been fatally hurt had his head come in contact with the barbed wire. Mr. Geren has driven a machine for over a year and is experienced. He accounts for the accident from the fact that he forgot to shut off the gasoline by the hand throttle on the steering wheel. He always uses the foot accelerator and forgot to pull down the hand throttle in taking the turn. The road at Neff's corner was still wet from the rain of yesterday and Mr. Geren intended to slow down but in making the turn at full speed the machine skidded. The Geren's live on the Mount farm south of the city.

TALKING OF COUNTY AGENT

County Board of Education Discusses Question Again Today.

The question of employing a county agent here was again before the county board of education this afternoon and it was hoped the board would take a favorable view of the new law. Jesse Shelton, trustee of Walker township, came to the meeting thoroughly imbued with the idea of employing a county agent and reported that more than enough to furnish Walker township's share of the $500 necessary to accompany the petition for an agent had been pledged to him. If the money is raised and twenty farmers petition for the appointment, the board can do nothing but place the matter before the county council.

HEAD STRIKES CURB IN FALL

Lon Prewitt Painfully Hurt When Team Starts Suddenly.

Lon Prewitt of the DoGolier Construction company sustained a painful injury to the back of his head this morning when a team he was driving started suddenly throwing him against the curb. The accident occurred in West Fourth street, where the company is unloading brick. Prewitt was rendered unconscious by the blow on the head. Three stitches were required and the physicians say he is not yet out of danger as he may have suffered a slight concussion of the brain. One of the wagon wheels hit Prewitt, but the injury was slight. Prewitt's home is in Seymour and he was formerly Marshal there. He was removed to his room at the Standard House following the accident.

T.A. COLEMAN WILL TAKE UP NEW WORK

Rushville Man Appointed Assistant State Leader to Carry on Agriculture Extension.

WILL LOCATE COUNTY AGENTS

T. A. Coleman has been appointed assistant state leader, to work under the direction of G. I. Christie, superintendent of the agricultural extension department at Purdue, and his particular duties for the present will be to find a county agent for any given county, after it has organized, according to a section of the new vocational education law, and then after all of the counties in the state have been equipped, to keep the agents busy. Mr. Coleman will speak at the country life conference in Indianapolis tomorrow, and while there will meet Mr. Christie and prepare to attend to his new duties. Mr. Coleman has been secretary of the State Federated Agricultural Societies.

The federal government will spend its money in extension work in Indiana through the state extension department because in the past the government, by its having no state head, had not been obtaining the results that it should for the money expended. Mr. Christie was appointed state leader to direct the federal work. He will merely outline the policies and Mr. Coleman will execute them. His headquarters will be at Lafayette.

MARTIN KELLEY IS HURT IN RUNAWAY

Blacksmith Throw From Buggy, Flesh Torn From Face and Ankle Badly Injured.

THE VEHICLE IS DEMOLISHED

Martin Kelley was painfully bruised this morning when his horse ran away while he was driving to his blacksmith shop. The horse became unmanageable and threw him, and practically demolished the buggy before it was caught. The animal ran around the court house block and across the west lawn, finally freeing itself of the vehicle in front of Norris' barber shop. The horse was caught in front of the post office. The flesh was torn from Mr. Kelley's face in several places and one of his ankles was badly hurt.

LARGE BARN IS HIT BY A BOLT

Structure on George McBride Farm in Center Township Burned Sunday at a Loss of $1,500.

THE OWNER HAS PNEUMONIA

Menacing Cloud Disturbs Church Services in Rushville But Does No Damage Here.

People living in Rushville and northern Rush county felt that they would be swept off the map when a very ominous looking cloud arose in the northwest yesterday morning. Church services were disturbed and there was a general rushing for home before the storm broke.

The storm fizzled out before it arrived in Rushville, but it did some damage in northern Rush county, striking a barn on George McBride's farm in Center township and killing live stock. Hail was reported from a few places in the northern part of the county, but it did little damage.

The menacing cloud had evil forebodings. It looked the most threatening at about the time the various Sunday schools were bringing their services to a close. Many people fled from the churches to their homes, fearing that the lightning and wind would do some damage. The rain fell in torrents for a few minutes here in the city and the threatened wind soon blew itself out.

The large barn on the McBride farm was struck by a bolt of lightning and fired during the storm. It burned to the ground and caused the owner a loss of fifteen hundred dollars. The loss was only partially covered by insurance.

Two horses, a buggy, wagon, mow-er, binder, corn planter and a quantity of hay and grain were consumed in the flames. There was no chance to save the structure because even the rain that was falling could make no headway against the fire.

A part of the loss is borne by Mrs. Treadway, a sister of Mr. McBride, who lives in that neighborhood. The buggy and one of the horses burned were her property. She had gone to her brother's home Saturday evening and spent the night there.

There is a pathetic side to the fire, because Mr. McBride is confined to his bed with pneumonia, with which he has been suffering several days. Excitement incident to the fire and the loss agitated Mr. McBride and it was feared that he might be worse.

Misfortune has beset Mr. McBride in the last few years. It was only two years ago that his beautiful country home on the same farm was buried to the ground. He has since erected another residence on the ruins of the old one north of the city. Five hogs belonging to John Wright living on the William Cross farm were killed by lightning yesterday morning when a bolt struck a tree under which they were lying. They were insured.

NEWLAND RELEASED

Oliver Newland, who gave his home as Rushville when he was arrested in Indianapolis Saturday morning, charged with loitering, was released by the police court judge late Saturday afternoon and told to return home. He charged that he had been slugged and robbed by Charles Steiner, a new found friend. Steiner is held under a high bond.

Frank Overman, Jennie Henley and Carrie O. Ball have filed a partition suit against Annie Overman in the circuit court.

TO ARRANGE FOR BAND CONCERTS

Rushville Retail Merchants Association Petitions Commissioners and City Council Today.

WANTS RIGHT TO BUILD STAND

Asks Council to Appropriation $300 to Pay For Concerts—Statute Allows Such Appropriation.

Two petitions, which are a part of the program to arrange for the erection of a band stand and to hold band concerts here this summer, were sent out by the Rushville Retail Merchants association today, one to the city council and another to the county board of commissioners.

The petition to the county board requested the right to erect a permanent bandstand in the northwest corner of the court house lawn. The petition was received, read and placed on file by the board and will likely be acted on at this meeting. The board will be in session again tomorrow.

After making known the desire of the association, the petition points out that the stand will be a permanent structure which will stand for years. It says that the structure will be an ornament to the court house lawn and will in no wise damage the appearance of the county's property. The document sets forth no debris of any sort will be left on the lawn after the stand is completed. It also sets forth that the stand would be useful on public occasions, such as the horse show or any celebration when a place from which to speak in a central location is desired.

The second petition begs the city council to appropriate three hundred dollars with which to pay for the concerts during the summer months. The petition is based on a statute enacted by the state legislature of 1911 giving the city council power to do what is asked.

The Rushville band has agreed to give concerts twice a week for three months, twenty-six in all, for three hundred dollars, making the price less than twelve dollars a concert. The band asked $15 for each concert if the number contracted for was less than twenty-six. The merchants association agrees to raise money by popular subscription to build the stand.

The following act of 1911 gives the city council the right to appropriate any sum up to $1,200 for summer band concerts:

"The common council of cities and the board of trustees of towns shall have power to appropriate not to exceed twelve hundred dollars per annum for the exclusive use of employing a city band or bands to furnish music in the city park or parks or public places of such city."

Harvey D. Allen, who is an architect, is drawing the plans for the bandstand. He will donate his services for the good of the cause.

Gass & Co., of Pekin, Ill., was today awarded the contract by the Rushville Co-operative Telephone Co., to put additional cables in that part of Rushville north of Fourth street and west of Main street. ## GREEN AGAIN DISAPPEARS

Greenfield Man Missing For Second Time in Two Months.

S. P. Green of Greenfield, formerly of this city and related locally, has again disappeared from his home there and as yet no trace of his whereabouts have been obtained. Green it will be remembered disappeared about two months ago and was found in a barn near Manilla. At that time he wandered about demented and when found could not recall leaving home or where he had been. His relatives fear that he is again demented and have started a search for him. At the time of his disappearance he wore blue-striped overalls, tan shirt and black shoes. He is fifty-one years old, heavy set, bald headed and has a very peculiar walk.

BOARD ALLOWS ROAD ESTIMATES

Commissioners in Regular Session Today Following Meeting of County Council Saturday.

BRIDGE BOND ISSUE REDUCED

The county commissioners, who were in regular session today, spent the morning allowing estimates on roads and expected to devote the afternoon allowing the monthly claims. The board also received the petition of the Rushville Retail Merchants association for the privilege of erecting a band stand at the northwest corner of the court house yard, but no comment was made on it.

The county council Saturday reduced the bond issue to rebuild and repair bridges damaged by the March flood from seventy to sixty thousand dollars and made appropriations additional to those made April 19, to the extent of $6,150. The appropriations were as follows: William Hall bridge, $1,250; Henry Leisure bridge (additional) $500; Rush-Decatur county line bridge, $2,000; Claude Miller bridge, $1,800; Sabert Offutt bridge, (additional) $600.

"This is a beautiful country around here," said Mr. Slack at the beginning of the address. "I am reminded when I view the beautiful scenery and the fine community, if it would not have been more appropriate had some city like this, or Crawfordsville, or Franklin, my home city been selected for the Masonic grand lodge for its orphans home. Communities like these are inspiring. There is a wonderful citizenship, without which no community is what it should be."

"Your fraternal orders are an index of your citizenship. For the most part they are composed of good citizens. Those who are not affiliated with them should recognize their worth."

Kleyla and Frank Trennepolh, started in the circuit court today. A jury was secured before noon and the examination of witnesses started. Trennepolh was injured in a cave-in at the gravel pit of John W. Johnson and among other injuries alleged to have been sustained he received a broken leg. Since the suit was filed Trennepolh has been sent to the Madison asylum and Sharp appointed guardian. The case is being tried with Sharp as the plaintiff for Trennepolh. Trennepolh demands $2,500 damage. The case is expected to occupy two or possibly three days of this week. The criminal cases against Blain Fritz will come up a week from tomorrow.

The Almighty Dollar With a Hole In It.

We all like to think that our own dollar is sound and worth 100 cents. If some one tries to pass us a dollar with a hole in it, or one plugged with lead, we make an emphatic protest.

All of which comes from the unthrifty American habit of careless spending, or, in other words, buying things in a hurry without thought and consideration.

In a new and bountiful country like ours it is a natural result of too much prosperity.

There is, however, a growing class of people who realize that it pays well to think as they buy. To all such we recommend the advertising pages of THE DAILY REPUBLICAN, which offer reliable information and suggestion to intending purchasers.

No More Storage of Grain by Dealers and Millers

In an interview with Grain Dealers and Millers of Rush County, as to the effect of the recent legislation, which provides that Mills, Elevators and Warehouses, that accept grain on deposit or storage, with or without compensation, shall become public storage companies, and fall under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission, the same as Railroads, Interurban Roads, Telegraph Companies, etc.

Each authorized the statement that they could not afford to comply with the requirements of the law governing public service companies, with its complicated system of bookkeeping, reports, etc., when business itself is unprofitable, hence they can not now longer accept grain on storage without rendering themselves liable to heavy penalties, therefore, to a man, they propose to abandon the practice entirely, and since the practice of loaning money to depositors and others has been indulged in so liberally by some grain dealers, in consequence of the storage of grain and otherwise, it is understood that such as have thus performed the functions of the banker will abandon that practice and no more money will be advanced, loaned or provided for by them, except in payment for grain, seed, etc., as the same is purchased and delivered.

TARIFF LOBBY ON DEFENSIVE

Senate Starts Its Searching Inquiry.

ALL MEMBERS MUST RESPOND

In Order That None May Escape Senatorial Quiz, Members of Congress Will Be Called in Alphabetical Order to Appear Before the Committee Demanded by President and Give Information Concerning Lobby.

Washington, June 2.—The president has not yet indicated to the senate committee on judiciary whether he would appear before the committee and supply names and evidence in the investigation to determine the accuracy of the charge that there is a tariff lobby in Washington seeking to influence legislation. The committee began its hearing this morning at 11 o'clock. The first witnesses called were from the senate. Members of the upper house will be called by fours in alphabetical order.

It will take several days to complete the list of senators. Among the names supplied to the committee by senators of persons who made representations to them on the tariff are many prominent Democratic politicians, some of them friends of the president. In other cases former members of congress, Republicans and Democrats, have appeared as attorneys and submitted briefs. Among the questions the senators will be asked to answer is the following:

"Will you please give, in so far as you are able to do so, the names of all persons who have personally appeared before you during the present session for the purpose of influencing legislation now pending, and especially the tariff bill?"

This question is listed as No. 3 in the senatorial lobby catechism, and senators are declaring that No. 3 in this case stands for "third degree."

Of course it is purely voluntary with senators as to whether they shall appear and submit to cross-examination, but as all of the ninety-six members of the senate are to be invited in alphabetical order and as those who do not come will have a lot of explaining to do to the folk back home, the chances are there will be a full attendance.

Philadelphia Schoolboy Solves a Puzzle of the Ages.

Philadelphia, June 2.—Sydney A. Gross, a sixteen-year-old student of the Central high school of this city, has invented an angle sector that has been declared by mathematicians to be the first device of its kind that would perform the feat of dividing an angle not a right angle. Heretofore the mathematical experts have declared that it was impossible to trisect or bisect such an angle, but Gross's invention has proved that Euclid was wrong.

Mathematicians have tested the boy's invention and found it to be correct. It is of use to architects who must decide where the support for a column or pillar in a building operation must be. It is of use to the surveyor to obtain the tri-section of a parcel of land and supplants the protractor, an instrument which has been used for years and has only approximately given the division of such angles, as nothing ever was heard of that performed this work before.

Denver Officials Defy Com-

Denver, Col., June 2.—Declining to surrender their offices to the commissioners, statements have been issued by Mayor Arnold and Treasurer Stocker and jointly by the mayor and treasurer and Sheriff Sullivan.

Stocker in his letter to Commissioner of Finance Pitcher, declared that under the United States supreme court decision in the Water case it was apparent that the February election had not been legal, hence the election of the commissioners was illegal.

Police are guarding the offices in the city hall and deputy sheriffs the offices in the courthouse to prevent any attempt that might be made by the commissioners to secure possession.

The five commissioners elected May 20 came into office at midnight Saturday night, the date for them to assume office being June 1, but as yesterday was Sunday they did not claim formal control of their positions until this morning at 10 o'clock.

EDITOR NEWETT GIVES UP FIGHT

Admits His Statement Libeled
Roosevelt.

MADE NO DEFENSE IN COURT

After Colonel's Side Rested the Defendant Took the Stand and Read a Prepared Statement Setting Out That He Had Raked the Country and Was Unable to Find Anything to Substantiate His Case.

Marquette, Mich., June 2.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt won his libel suit against Geo. A. Newett, who charged the colonel with drunkenness, and, having waived damages after the defendant had uttered a retraction, the jury awarded the nominal damages of 6 cents provided in such cases by the laws of Michigan. Each party to the suit will have to pay his own expenses.

Judge Flannigan instructed the jury men to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which they did without leaving their seats. The colonel left for the east less than two hours after the conclusion of the case.

"The plaintiff rests," remarked the attorney in a matter-of-fact manner, and every eye was turned toward the table where sat the defendant and his attorneys. Horace Andrews of Cleveland and William P. Belden of Ishpeming.

"The defense will call Mr. Newett," announced Attorney Belden, and a ruddy-cheeked man took the chair. In his hand he carried a manuscript. Colonel Roosevelt sat with folded arms at first, but when the defendant began reading his statement he moved to the utmost edge of his chair and betrayed an excitement which his rigid jaws could not hide. Mr. Newett was well along in his reading before the colonel, whose position seemed like that of a man about to leap forward, lost the tense look on his face.

"It is fair to the plaintiff to state that I have been unable to find in any section of the country any individual witness who is willing to state that he has personally seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess."

At this the plaintiff smiled. The colonel broke into a grin again when Mr. Newett, speaking distinctly and with emphasis, said, with reference to the mass of testimony adduced by the plaintiff: "I am forced to the conclusion that I was mistaken."

The statement admitted that a search of the country had been made to investigate stories of persons who were alleged to have knowledge that Mr. Roosevelt drank to excess, but in every case the stories flattened out to mere opinions or hearsay. The libel was published in good faith, Newett said, in the belief that it was true and proper information for a public which was being asked to vote for Mr. Roosevelt for president.

That it was true the defendant said he never questioned until the libel suit was begun, and believed the assertion until the trial opened.

No demand for a retraction ever had been made, he stated, and when the bill was filed against him, there was nothing left for him to do but seek evidence and make other preparations to contest the suit. Forty depositions were taken in various parts of the country, but to use them or attempt to use them, would be to continue an injustice which had already become apparent to him and to his attorneys.

Leaving the stand and returning to his seat, Mr. Newett looked in the direction of Colonel Roosevelt, but the latter was absorbed in whispering to his attorney, who turned to Judge Flannigan and said:

"With the court's permission the plaintiff would like to make a brief announcement."

The judge nodded and Mr. Roosevelt arose. "Your honor, in view of the statement of the defendant I ask that the court instruct the jury that I desire only nominal damages."

"I did not go into this case for money. I did not go into it for any vindictive purpose. I went into it and, as the court said, I made my reputation an issue, because I wished once for all during my lifetime, thoroughly and comprehensively, to deal with these slanders so that never again will it be possible for any man in good faith to repeat them. I have achieved my purpose and I am content."

COLORADO HAS RADIIUM SUPPLY

European Syndicates Take Up
Ore Producing Grounds.

AUSTRIAN FIELDS DEPLETED

America, It Is Said, Soon Will Be the Only Source From Which Precious Material Can Be Obtained—Failure of Pitchblende Beds Turns Producers to Carnotite as Substitute.

That ores from which radium can be secured can be found now practically nowhere except in the counties of Mesa, Montrose and San Miguel of western Colorado is shown in the last report of the Colorado bureau of mines in an article prepared by Professor F. W. Forstall, who occupies the chair of chemistry in Sacred Heart college in Denver.

Millions of dollars' worth of uranium and vanadium ore will be shipped from western Colorado within the next few years, predicts the report.

Up to the present radium has been extracted almost exclusively from pitchblende. Pitchblende has been secured almost entirely from Austria, but despite rigid conservation of the beds by the Austrian government they have been mined out, and radium experts are now turning to carnite, a form of uranium ore, as the only substitute. Carnite is confined to western Colorado.

The great activity on the part of European radium and uranium experts in western Colorado had not been generally known in western slope cities until the recent report on radium was issued. It amazed the people of western Colorado when it showed that in 1911 1.515 tons of uranium ore were shipped by European people from the Paradox valley through Grand Junction and Placerville.

Value of Shipments.

The total value of these shipments was more than $303,000. In 1912 1,092 tons, valued at $245,812, were shipped to Europe from western Colorado. The ore in these consignments ran so high in uranium that no concentration was needed.

The first Grand Junction people to take advantage of the opportunity offered in the radium-uranium-vanadium field received word recently that for 77,000 pounds of uranium ore which they shipped last fall to Pueblo they were to receive $2,114 net.

There were 4,500 pounds of moisture in the ore, according to the report from the American Smelting and Refining company at Pueblo. The ore was held in Pueblo until the local men agreed to sell it to European agents. They will net $30 per ton. The ore ran 7.5 per cent uranium and 1.8 per cent vanadium.

The vanadium field in western Colorado extends for 100 miles from Telluride and Placerville down the Paradox valley, through the Unaweep canyon, past Gateway and down the Little Dolores river to Cisco, in eastern Utah.

It is from three to four miles wide. It is rich in about a dozen different places, the rest of the belt simply showing traces.

A Profitable Industry.

The richest claims are in the Paradox valley, seventy miles from Grand Junction. There some Colorado men will erect a small concentrating mill in connection with their radium laboratory.

Radium ore which averages 2 per cent can be easily concentrated to 20 per cent. The state report shows that a ton of carnite or uranium ore which contains 20 per cent of uranium contains $8,500 worth of radium. Radium is worth $2,400,000 per ounce.

Most of the richest claims in western Colorado have been taken up by European syndicates, their work being so stealthy that they secured an immense advantage before Colorado prospectors and mining men awoke to what was being done.

SEAL FOR NEW DEPARTMENT.

Secretary Redfield Devises a Symbol of Authority.

The department of commerce found itself on March 4 without a seal, owing to the division of the department of commerce and labor. Secretary Redfield has devised a new symbol of authority.

It consists of a shield on the upper half of which is a vessel with full sail set to the wind, while the lower half displays the lighthouse shedding its light to the distant horizons. Above the crest the American eagle keeps guard.

Posthumous Gallantry.

A pretty bit of gallantry was found in the will of Lord Crawford of England, who died not long ago. In disposing of certain jewels Lord Crawford referred to them as having been "used and adorned by my wife."

Couldn't Prove It.

Theodore Roosevelt drew six cents damage from the Michigan editor which was made a defendant by the former president in a libel suit. The case terminated suddenly Saturday afternoon because, when the plaintiff rested, the defendant made a public retraction in which he declared that he had been unable to prove the assertions of the editorial complained of, and admitted that he had been wrong, but that the charges against Roosevelt had been printed in good faith.

In his statement Editor Newett declared that the various stories which had come to him from various sources, through exchanges and people confirmed him "in the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt ought not to be elected President and I concluded that it was my duty in opposition to his candidacy to publish the statements, which I then believed to be true."

"I thereupon wrote and published the article which is here complained of. This publication was intended only as a blow to Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for the position he then sought. In this publication I acted in entire good faith, believing that the facts stated were true and believing that, as a publisher, I owed the duty to my readers to make that statement."

"Both my attorneys and myself," continued the editor went forward with the investigation of all this with great thoroughness and in numerous places in various parts of the country we found reputable witnesses who were willing to swear that from observation during certain of the addresses and public appearances of Mr. Roosevelt they believed that he was intoxicated when they saw him.

"We have been unable, however, to locate or produce witnesses who will swear that they have actually seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess. Upon this phase of the case, when the statements attributed to such persons had been sifted, it was found in each instance that the witness did not himself know that Mr. Roosevelt had drunk to excess or that if he had made such claim he was not willing to testify."

"It is fair to the plaintiff to state that I have been unable to find in any section of the country any individual witness who is willing to state that he has personally seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess."

"I have taken the testimony in the form of depositions of more than forty reputable witnesses who have expressed the opinion that on those occasions as to which they testify he was intoxicated."

"I believe all these witnesses were honest in making their statements. I have relied upon those witnesses, but have recognized the lesser opportunities they have had to observe the plaintiff and his habits."

"I have been profoundly impressed during the progress of this trial by the nature and extent of the evidence produced by the plaintiff to

ACTS OF SERVICE ARE INSPIRING

power of memory is the sweetest on earth. It takes us back in the manner of a resurrection, as it were, to things of years of age, to the time when we were erring and a good brother put his hand on our shoulder and brought us back. Perhaps we remember that brother.

"We are here to remember the good. With all due respect to ministers, I can not but help say something like a preacher. I think of eternal truths. We men are apt to dwell on the material side of life too much and leave the religious side to the women. In our fraternities and in our business we men are coming more to believe that we too, have elevating ideas and should put them forth to make the world better. I believe there are more good thoughts in the mind of men today than ever before. Much of this has resulted from the teachings of fraternal orders."

"When we come into a secret order, do we receive friendship by the yard?" asked Mr. Slack. "Yet this is a great part of man. Do we get our benevolences by the bushel. This, too, is a part of man. Is charity assessed like our property? It, also, is a part of man. Do we deal in love like we do in dry goods? No, because it is not a commodity. Yet these and many other things go to make up a man. They all came to us by right of inheritance, because God gave them to us. The trouble is we do not use them enough. We measure men by their real estate, wealth or other earthly things."

"My ideal man is built of truth, benevolences and other inherent qualities. The man is divine. But we let the preacher or our saintly mother talk about the divine things. We men used to think we would be wafted to a place of golden streets and jasper-walls. We looked on it as a place for mother or little children. That idea is being couched nowadays. Now men are demanding the good here on earth. We are dwelling in a religion that does not come in a miraculous way. Our religion is doing all the good it can now."

"I plead for the fullest realization in men here and not hereafter. The trouble is that many of us are waiting for something around the corner. Our charities are too informal, too void of personal touch. We get the inspiration of divine being by doing loving, little acts of service for our fellowmen every day without bestowing gifts on him after he is dead. Every good thought builds men up and makes them better."

In conclusion Mr. Slack repeated the story of Everyman who, when the end of life rolled around, wanted his earthly fame close by his side to help him across the great river. He approached the river, but fame disappeared as a mist before a warm sun. He brought forth his riches but they, too, melted when the river banks were near. Finally he called on good deeds done and they made his passage across safe.

Miles S. Cox introduced the speaker briefly and the Rev. J. B. Meacham, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, made the opening prayer. The band played two selections during the opening exercises. Mr. Slack spoke from Mr. Trabue's automobile and the crowd stood on the hillside in the western part of the cemetery where there is a natural amphitheater.

THINK ESCAPE WAS FORTUNATE

Paul and Miss May Wesling, While Riding in Buggy Hit by I. & C. Car at Main Street Crossing.

GIRL IS SERIOUSLY BRUISED

Interurban Running Slowly Accounts For Fact That Accident Sunday Did Not Result Fatally.

Miss May Wesling, living a short distance south of Rushville, was seriously hurt when the buggy in which she was riding was hit by the I. & C. dispatch, eastbound, due here at 10:06, at the corner of Main and Third streets Sunday morning. Her brother, Paul Wesling, who was the other occupant of the buggy escaped uninjured.

Miss Wesling was removed to a physician's office nearby and her injuries dressed. She suffered nothing more than some bruises, the physician says, from which nothing dangerous is liable to arise. Her left hip was hurt so that she was unable to walk to the office, and afterward she had to be assisted to a vehicle to be hauled home.

Eyewitnesses of the accident attach no blame to the interurban crew. They say that the car was being run very cautiously and that the mishap could not be avoided after the buggy had been driven directly in front of the car.

Miss Wesling said afterwards that she and her brother held the I. & C. motorman blameless. She explained that she and her brother were driving a fractious horse, and that when they saw the car coming they grew panicky and drove the horse in front of the car when they did not have time to get across.

People who saw the accident say that Miss Wesling and her brother owe their life to the fact that the car was being run very slowly across Main street. As it was the buggy and horse was scooted along in front of the car for several feet.

There was no way of escape for the occupants of the buggy because, when the car struck the buggy squarely in the center, the top was bent over the dashboard and it was impossible for either one to jump. The impact was so sudden, too, that there was no opportunity to leap.

The horse was knocked down and dragged several feet and the buggy was so badly damaged that it could not be used to ride in home. One rather remarkable feature of the accident was the circumstance that the horses were pulled off both the horses back feet. The incident is not explained yet. Whether the horse's shoes were caught in the crossing when the car hit the buggy or they were torn off by the car could not be told.

The two people in the buggy consider their escape very fortunate, as do the people who saw the accident. Men who ran to their aid expected to find them fatally hurt, if not dead. Men managed to hold the horse down so that it could do no damage after the car stopped. E. Shortridge, motorman, and Irvin Neal, conductor, were in charge on the interurban car.

Mrs. Apartment — "It's the hardest thing to get hot water here; you're not supposed to do any washing in the rooms. And when I do get hot water it takes so long to wash that the rooms get awful smelly."

Anty Drudge — "Why don't you use Fels-Naptha Soap? Then you won't have to use hot water and will get through in a jiffy."

To women who live in apartments the washing of clothes is a problem. The solution—Fels-Naptha Soap.

Say you have a shirtwaist or other small things, that you don't want to send out to be washed. You can do much better at home in this way:

Wet the clothes, soap well with Fels-Naptha, roll and leave to soak in cool or lukewarm water for a short time. Then rub lightly, rinse and dry.

Takes but one-fourth the time and one-tenth the work of the old way. Also saves the clothes.

"Oh, if I could only make you feel as I do!" she exclaimed in dreary despair. "I'm so oppressed, Friedrich!" she turned to him again. "This is a great thing that you have invented—this process of color photography. Think what can be done with it! It would mean millions to you—and fame."

"Yes, my love," he replied gently, but shook his head, "in an honest world—yes! But they would cheat me. They would steal it. And, see, I must have money to finance it, to protect it. Then, when all this blows over—in Germany, perhaps. Who knows?"

The buzzer sounded loudly, and he looked up.

"That must be Skidd," he muttered, and walking quickly to the door, he opened it and slipped out into the dark hall. He called softly and there was a confused murmur from below. Then he returned with heavy frown on his face.

"No, it is Hurley," he exclaimed. "Hurley!" echoed Mrs. Martin, star-

"I suppose when it's time for me to know what's goin' on in this shack I'll be tipped off by the bull on the beat!"

"Well, who is it?" demanded Hurley, after Gage had vanished.

"It's Miss Mazuret!"

"What?" exclaimed Hurley, the color stricken from his face in an instant.

"Kayton asked me to take charge of her," explained Mrs. Martin simply.

"My God! Are you crazy?" gasped the lawyer.

"It would have been crazy to refuse," returned the woman as quietly as ever. Hurley swallowed hard and bit his lip.

"This is a plant!" he declared in a hoarse whisper.

"But, listen!"

"The one person in the world that you should have kept furthest away from!"

"Oh, do not talk, Hurley!" broke in Kreisler with impatience and contempt. "Listen, listen!"

Hurley gulped again, but made no further effort to speak, and Mrs. Martin told the story simply but rapidly.

"When I went in that day about the legacy he was planning to have the girl disappear," she said. "He wanted to protect her from reporters, and, besides, he suspected some one in their house, and he wanted to throw all the suspicion on her and put them off their guard. It was my telling him that I had furnished rooms that put the idea in his head. He thought, of course, that I must be under obligations to Mr. Argyle, and I couldn't refuse to take her without arousing his suspicions. How could I? What excuse could I give? I couldn't tell him why we didn't want her in this house."

"It would have been better to let that legacy go," declared Kreisler darkly.

Hurley had been gradually pulling himself together, and as he listened to Mrs. Martin's even voice he lost some of the ghastly look that the announcement had brought to his face.

"Hold on!" he exclaimed. "Wait a minute. What was that? Do you mean to tell me that he's using us to throw the real criminals off the track?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Martin, her lips twitching faintly.

"Well, by Jove!" exclaimed Hurley, his voice cracking with the excess of relief, the strong reaction from his terror of a few moments before. "Never-sleep Kayton!" he crowed and burst into a hearty laugh. "Isn't he wonderful, this great detective? Oh, it's all advertising—he's a pinhead! If he knew the kind of horsehair they have in some of these lodging house mattresses, eh, Kreisler?"

"Hush!" warned the German. "Not so loud."

But Hurley was irrepressible. "Have you seen the papers?" he chuckled. "They're full of her flight. Everybody is now sure of her guilt."

"How terrible!" shuddered Mrs. Martin, with a catch in her voice. "Who is it that Kayton suspects?"

"How could you guess?" laughed Hurley scornfully. "A man with a mind like that! I judge he thinks it's Bruce—because he hasn't taken him into his confidence—and the boy's distracted. He's got the whole city searching for her."

"Friedrich," exclaimed the woman as if suddenly seized with a terrible dread, new and overpowering. "If they never find out the truth they'll never clear her! And if they do find out—" The hiatus was sternly impressive. Hurley shrugged his shoulders.

"Oh, Kayton will cook up some story to cover his failure," he said lightly. And, laughing quietly, he went out and down the stairs to the street. He did not know that in the upper room of the house next door Manning was swearing at him softly, while two of his associates read his shorthand notes over the boy's shoulder. Manning re-vered his chief.

"Friedrich," said Mrs. Martin quietly, "you and Gage go downstairs and let me talk to him."

"But, my dear," protested the artist, with a gesture toward the table, "I cannot leave all this here."

"Well, I guess my seat's wanted," snapped Gage, making for the door.

When the street door had closed Kreisler looked at Mrs. Martin and shook his head soberly.

"He should have kept away from this detective," he declared uneasily. "It is a bad thing when a man is too bold from apprehension. He should not sniff around traps."

The woman did not seem to hear. "Friedrich," she cried distractingly, "what have I done to Mary? I have tried to keep our lives as far apart as I could, but it seems as if the devil had drawn us together—to ruin her."

"It is not so," he assured her gently, taking her in his arms. "It is the luck of the game, just a little bad luck! It will pass."

"Oh, if you'd only listen to me!" she mourned. "If you'd only come away. If you'd only come away!"

Bzzz-r! warned the buzzer from above the door.

"Who is that?" she demanded quickly. He could feel her turn rigid as stone in his arms, and he patted her cheek with his hand.

"It must be Skidd," he said quietly, and, releasing her, went to the door and softly opened it, listening to the sounds from below.

"Yes, it is he," he said, and frowned slightly. "Gage is with him. I'm afraid Skidd has been drinking."

COL. ROOSEVELT'S LIBEL SUIT SUBJECT OF PUBLIC INTEREST

Notable List of Witnesses Summoned For Action Against Michigan Publisher.

Story That Progressive Leader Often Drank to Excess Was Cause of Trouble.

ers" on alighting from his train and in walking to the speakers' stands in various Ohio towns and that at times his language gave the deponents the impression that he was intoxicated.

The pro-Roosevelt depositions were taken in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio and in the cities of Washington and Chicago. The colonel's lawyers declared these depositions proved that Roosevelt drinks practically no liquor and that in the Ohio instances he had "helpers" they were merely committee members of escort.

Newett Denies Rumors.

Many intimations regarding Newett's backers were heard, but he and his chief counsel branded these reports as fables. They admitted that contributions as high as $500 had come to them, but said the money was returned to the donors.

Circuit Judge R. C. Flannigan of Ironwood, who was assigned to preside at the trial, said he would not permit the libel case to interfere with the usual methods of court procedure in the Marquette circuit.

Eighty-six men, thirty-six on the regular panel and fifty on the special venire, were summoned for the jury.

The regular panel was composed of men in various lines of business, while the special venire was selected with much care. The laboring class in the Marquette section consists largely of foreigners, mostly miners and dock workers.

In view of the heavy demands to be made upon the telegraph companies for newspaper service a special wire was run into the courthouse.

Attorneys for both sides on arriving at court maintained the strict secrecy which had characterized their actions and work since the case was started. The Roosevelt contingent was told by an attorney working on depositions that a Milwaukee witness upon whom the defense is said to have placed considerable dependence had had a "collapse." The defense's attorneys refused to comment on this statement.

The history of some men who had made depositions was investigated carefully. In one instance the investigators found that two weeks after a witness made a supposedly important deposition he was arrested on a charge of jumping his board bill.

Both sides arranged to bring every ounce of pressure to bear in the matter of personal history, reputation or character to affect testimony.

On its face the reason for gathering this formidable array of testimony was only a quarrel between an ex-president of the United States and a hitherto unknown Michigan editor. If it were nothing else than an isolated attack made in a single editorial article in one newspaper the colonel would seem to have been making a mountain out of a molehill.

Wanted Facts Told.

But the reason lay deeper. The ex-president was determined to bring out in public, where it could be attacked and defended, a story which has been whispered and even openly insinuated about him all over the United States.

He did not wish that story to spread into popular legend about him, as it has about other presidents and public men who let it go uncontradicted. Probably in no previous case has the story been spread so widely.

In the far west it has grown to such proportions that what purport to be accounts of the colonel's debauches have appeared in the newspapers, but always so guarded that they could not be made the basis of libel actions.

They have consisted in accounts of his peculiar mannerisms, so worded as to convey the implication that he was intoxicated without using actionable language.

Marquette as a city found reason for rejoicing in the trial, for it brought a measure of fame to the town.

Every possible provision was made to give Colonel Roosevelt a pleasant sojourn in the city. At the home of George Shiras, where Colonel Roosevelt and his friends went on arriving at Marquette, to remain until the end of the trial, facilities for the utmost comfort of the distinguished guests were provided.

Prior to the arrival of the party the house was stocked liberally with food and arrangements made to care for thirty persons. The Shiras home is beautifully furnished and overlooks Lake Superior from a rock cliff.

WILL WARN AGAINST FLOODS.

Pennsylvania Will Have Signals For Towns on Big Streams.

Governor Tener of Pennsylvania recently signed the Ulman bill establishing a system of flood warnings for all towns on the principal streams of the state. An appropriation of $10,000 is carried.

The governor also approved the Sproul act to make all money received from automobile licenses payable to the state highway department for improvement of highways. It is expected that this will make about $800,000 available this year and a greater sum next year.

State Conference on Agriculture and Country Life to Be Held in Indianapolis This Week Will Have as Its Object a Discussion of Best Methods of Co-operating in the Extension of the State's Farming Interests.

Indianapolis, June 2.—Tomorrow morning the first state conference on agriculture and country life to be held in Indiana will begin here. In several ways it will be unique in agricultural meetings in the United States. It is expected that the conference will bring together from 1,500 to 2,000 thoughtful men and women who are working for the development of Hoosier soil resources as well as to expand social, religious, commercial and educational life in the rural districts. For five sessions those attending the conference will hear addresses on many subjects, one touching upon the other, which will be discussed by fifteen speakers, some of whom have national fame as authorities on farm topics. There is a continuity in the program from the first discussion to the last which will spread over practically every subject of interest to the people of the farming regions.

The conference has for its purpose the increasing of crop outputs and to give farmers and bankers light on their financial relations; how country and city organizations may work together to conserve as well as increase the harvest yields of field and orchard; rural club and church activities as they touch both old and young on the farm; the education of country boys and girls of this day that they may in the future become better farm workers than were their fathers and mothers—all of these phases of agriculture, as it is known in Indiana, will, through the speakers, be brought before the conference, and in the open discussions by men and women in the audience may carry some of the subjects into remote details.

"If the people I met in the steerage of the Corazona," the bishop said, "are typical of those who have been coming here recently, the country has reason to feel proud of them. I never saw a cleaner and more intelligent lot of men and women."

The bishop after taking ship from the Philippines, went over to Europe by the Trans-Siberian railway.

He said there was no probability of the Japanese making war on the United States, and that there was not the ghost of a war scare in the Philippines.

He smiled at the suggestion that the Japanese might take the Philippines.

At present, he said, the islands were under better government than they ever had and the masses of the people were content.

Throughout the trip the bishop enjoyed the companionship of the immigrants immensely. He ate the meals that are served in the steerage and found them excellent.

One of the Saturday night regulars from here to Connerville was arrested by the police of that city as he was attempting to board the car home. He was carrying a quantity of beer and whiskey in a suitcase and told the police there that he was taking it home to give Chief McAllister a drink. The Connerville police called McAllister yesterday and told him of the incident and endeavored to learn his name. Word from there today was that the man had been released last night without having a trial. The reason given was that Connerville did not want to give free board to any Rushville drunk.

The fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Kinkler of Noble township who was seriously hurt in a runaway last Thursday is rapidly recovering. He fell under the wagon and was run over by it, and was badly bruised.

Mrs. Wayne Wellman of near New Salem, who has been seriously ill, is able to be up now.

SOLDIERS LOST TO LOCAL TEAM

Rushville Pounded Two Pitchers, Winning From Ninth Infantry by 9 to 4 Score.

GAME CALLED IN THE EIGHTH

Contest Played on Heavy Field and Was See-Saw Affair From Start to Finish.

The Ninth Infantry team of the United States Army was outclassed in a slow game yesterday by the locals and at the end of an eight inning affair Rushville led 9 to 4. The game only went eight innings and was called by agreement at six o'clock. The players did not like to take a chance with the law and the game ended with the end of the eighth at six o'clock. The Sunday baseball law allows playing between one o'clock and six.

One of the largest crowds of the year was out to see Uncle Sam's boys perform. The game was late in getting started due to the lodge decoration and the condition of the diamond. The rain of Sunday morning made the infield a sea of mud and it took considerable work to get it in shape. Despite the heavy field very few errors were made. Both pitchers were hit hard and the fan that likes the hit and run game sure had his day. Avery had the soldiers on his wagon and although they obtained eight hits they were well scattered with the exception of to doubles in the fifth.

The Soldiers started out in the first round and the speed displayed made the crowd sit up and take notice. At the start the boys from Ft. Thomas ran the bases wild and hit like a million. The roar that went up from the grand stand could be heard a mile and predictions that Rushville was in for a beating came by the dozens. This fear did not last long for in the very start the

The game was exceedingly fast for the condition of the diamonds and that there were not more errors made remarkable. The army team is composed of a bunch of huskies and the locals showed their class by winning.

The Indianapolis Specials will be the attraction next Sunday. The Specials have defeated some of the best teams in the state and recently put one over on Alexandria. A week from Sunday the Merits will probably be the attraction.

The last inning could not doubt have been played but as the law says six o'clock is the limit there was no use taking the chance. The fine does not amount to much but to be arrested does not help the sport and for the good of the cause the umpires called the game.

Every pitched a nice game considering that he worked Decoration day. He really had no business pitching, but at that he got away with it.

Charley Coombs took a liking to Payne's offerings and the southpaw had nothing he could not hit.

The game was not started until after four o'clock and the management worked hard at that to get the grounds in shape.

locals got to Withers and he was driven from the mound. This was in the second inning and if the soldiers had left him in the box Rushville would likely be scoring yet today.

Withers lasted just one and one-third innings and Payne, who relieved him fared little better. The game was a see-saw affair and after the locals had scored four runs in the second inning, the soldiers came back in the fifth and tied up the score. This did not stop Rushville's bunch of sluggers and the team finished in three more in the sixth.

David, the first man up for the visitors singled and stole second. Ungrey was safe on Wilson's error and David scored. Payne singled to left but was forced at second by Jaymes, Klenk to Cook. Jaymes attempted to steal second and Cook caught Ungrey at the plate. Maginske struck out. Rushville went out in order.

In the last of the second Rushville got to Withers. Cook drew a walk. Carr sacrificed. Hahn singled through short and Cook scored. Yazel slammed one for two bases. Charley Coombs followed Yazel with a two bagger and Payne was sent in to pitch. Avery drew a walk. Withers on first base dropped a throw and Avery went to second and Coombs scored. Klenk flew to the first baseman and Wilson struck out.

Certain Success

Will follow saving. The great men of every country—the world's leaders in every line—unite in saying this. Read their own words:

"Save, young man, and become respectable and respected. It is the surest way." —Benjamin Franklin.

"Teach economy; that is one of the first and highest virtues. It begins with saving money." —Abraham Lincoln.

"Economy is the keynote of character and success. A boy who is taught to save his money will rarely be a bad man or a failure; the man who saves will rise in his trade or profession steadily this is inevitable." —Gladstone.

"The little savings bank in the home means more for the future of the children of a family, almost, than all of the advice in the world. It gives them the right start." —William McKinley.
